

Clues for Thanksgiving Scavenger Hunt for Adults

by A Subtle Revelry

Things are a little different for adult scavenger hunts, because the clues and prizes need to be a little more mature.

Friendsgiving is getting more popular among young adults with no kids, and what better way to celebrate with your friends than a scavenger hunt?

Have each guest bring a prize to contribute so that one person doesn't have to bring them all, or skip the prizes and turn it into a drinking game instead!

You can put drinks at each of the locations instead of prizes, and everyone will be sure to have a great time.

I am going to give some thanksgiving scavenger hunt clues again, and for the adults I like to use the whole house and even outdoors to make it a little more fun.

If you have multiple areas where these things could be, even better! Hide the prizes in the place you think will be the last place to look. Here is clue number 1:

The more I dry, the wetter I get.

I might be folded if I haven't been used yet!

Clue number one is about towels, so it could be placed in a bathroom cabinet where towels are, a hallway linen closet, or a towel drawer in the kitchen! There you will place the 2nd clue and first prize. Clue number 2 is:

I'm thankful to be able to quench my thirst

Growing up isn't always the worst!

This prize will be hidden where the adult beverages are kept. It could be in the wine cabinet, the fridge with the beer, or in the garage fridge where other alcohol may be kept! There will be the next clue, which is:

I'm thankful to greet every guest,

But being walked all over isn't always the best

This clue goes by the Welcome mat, which can be indoors or outdoors. I would place the next clue underneath the doormat, which will say:

I can go near, I can go far

Just don't take me home from the bar

This riddle is for a vehicle- depending on where the cars are, you can find the best hiding spot in or underneath one. If there is a car in the garage that is a good place to hide it, too. The last clue will be hidden there, and that one will say:

Soap and water are my best friends

Spin cycle is where this scavenger hunt ends!

The grand prize will be hidden in the (hopefully empty) washing machine! If it's not empty, you can always put it on top of the washing machine. Again, feel free to add any of your own clues and hiding spots to lengthen the game if you'd like.
