Halloween Would You Rather Game FAQs

If you're unsure how to play you can read through our answers below.

How many players?

You need least two players, and there isn't really a limit on how many people can play. Although if there are quite a lot of people you might want to split into two or three smaller groups.

Who goes first?

We like to use all sorts of creative ways to pick which player goes first in our Would You Rather games. For this game, whichever player was born closest to Halloween goes first.

How to play?

First you need your questions. You can print these ones out or write them down on some cards. For our Halloween version of the game, we like to put all of our questions into a pumpkin or a spooky bowl, and let each player pick a random one on their turn.

The first player asks their question to another player of their choice, or to the whole group. Play should then continue in a clockwise direction, until all questions have been asked, or until it is time to go trick-or-treating!

Is there a time limit?

That's up to you. If you would like to speed up the game, you can use a timer. This will also put pressure on players to answer quickly, which could turn out to be very funny indeed if the question is particularly gross!
